

VISTA LESSON 13

RESTORE RUN COMMAND TO START MENU

One of the things Microsoft did when it designed Vista was to remove the Run Command from the Start Menu. I use the Run Command frequently so I'm not happy with this decision.

Sure, you can type Run in the Start Menu search window and press the Enter key to bring up the Run Dialog Box, but wouldn't it be better to just have the Run Command right there on the Start Menu? Sure it would, and here's how you do it.

Right click on the Start Button and then click on Properties. Now click the Customize button beside the Start Menu version that you are using.

Now in the Customize Start Menu Window. Scroll down until you find Run Command. Click in the box next to the Run Command and then click OK. The next time you open the Start Menu you'll see the Run Command at the bottom of the Start Menu on the right side. How convenient.

